

Strikers Agree To Work Alaska Bound Ships

he is "taking no sides" in the present controversy, adding that he would "like very much to see both employers and unions sit down to iron out their differences."

Meanwhile, the Alaska railroad was setting up emergency shipping offices at Pier 50 and going ahead with plans to operate three government-owned barges in Alaska service.

Foss Launch and Tug company of Seattle will be awarded the contract to tow the government barges between Puget Sound and Seward. A. Moore, assistant to the general manager of the Alaska Railroad announced.

The contract for loading the 2000 ton barges will go to Griffiths and Sprague Stevedoring company, Moore added. The company, an independent firm, has signed with the longshore union.

Cargo booking for Seward and the Alaska rail belt is scheduled to start today, Moore said. The government agency expects to start receiving emergency freight at Pier 50 Thursday.

The first barge will not load any cargo in Tacoma, but Tacoma freight will be given equal consideration if loaded in Seattle, Moore explained. Later sailings may call at Tacoma for freight, he said.

Priority will be given all essential freight, including food, medical supplies, building materials

Resourceful Pilot Saves Passengers

MIAMI, Fla., (AP)—Twenty-two persons were saved Monday by the resourcefulness of a pilot who brought his transport plane to a skillful landing in pitch darkness on the beach of a lonely Bahaman island.

The nineteen Puerto Rican passengers, somewhat confused by the unscheduled stop early Monday on a tiny strip of sand in the Atlantic Ocean about 125 miles east of Miami, continued to San Juan aboard another chartered plane.

Running out of gasoline and groping its way through the tropic night, the twin-engined DC-3 made a crash landing on Haines Cay in the Berry Island group, 60 miles northwest of Nassau.

Pan American Gets Hawaii Charter

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Pacific Northwest businessmen, after months of effort, found themselves yesterday with two airlines certified to fly between the northwest and Hawaii.

The sudden aerial prosperity resulted from Monday's civil aeronautics board action approving, at President Truman's direction Pan American World Airways service.

The new authorization varies from that recently given Northwest Airlines in one regard.

Pan American may operate between the northwest and Hawaii only on flights that continue beyond the island stop. It cannot operate a local service.

Northwest Airlines is authorized to operate a local service.

Pan American company officials indicated in Seattle and San Francisco Monday that the new service is prepared to get under way just as quickly as planes and crews can be made ready. They indicated that would be soon.

Various northwest organizations carried out a lengthy campaign to secure the original authorization for a Seattle-Portland to Hawaii direct service.

Northwest was selected over Pan American and two other applicants for the original run. Pan American and United already operate between California and Hawaii.

Alabama's Gov. Won't Give Picture

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—A photographer for the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer reported yesterday that companions of Alabama's governor James E. Folsom destroyed about $50 worth of camera equipment on the chief executive's order at a weekend football game.

News cameraman Brady Bynum said the incident occurred Saturday at the Auburn-Louisiana tech game when he photographed the governor with a paper cup in his hand.

Bynum related the governor asked him to destroy the negative and that when he refused Folsom turned to a man later identified as Nick Littlefield, one of his special investigators, and said:

"Nick, if you had been on the ball he wouldn't have got that. I don't want that picture to go out of here."

Then, Bynum added, Littlefield and two or three other men shoved him against a car door, seized his equipment bag, and destroyed nine film holders valued at $5.25 each.

Folsom and Littlefield declined comment.

It's hard to look pleasant when anguish is present, And yet it is strictly worthwhile. Not all of your scowling and fussing and growling Can show off your grit like a smile.

Shoots Brother Over Comic Book

NEW CASTLE (AP)—A six-year-old boy fatally wounded his 10-year-old brother in an argument over a comic book Lawrence county coroner Charles Allen reported.

Allen said the older boy, George Lee Naul, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Naul of suburban Clifton Flats, died in a hospital a few hours after he was shot in the head with a 12-gauge shotgun.

The coroner said the shotgun was fired by the victim's younger brother, Samuel Thomas Naul. Allen said the argument arose from George's wish to trade a comic book with a neighbor boy and Samuel's protest that he had not yet seen the book.

The shooting occurred, Allen said, in the bedroom the boys shared and happened after the boys' father, a steel-worker, ordered George to bed to end the argument.

The coroner quoted the father as saying he kept the shotgun unloaded in his own bedroom and the shells hidden in a vase.

District attorney Leroy K. Donaldson said the case will be turned over to the juvenile court. No charge will be filed, he said, because the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania believes a child of less than seven years incapable of committing a crime.

"Alaska Now" Goes Into 4th Printing

The 4th printing since publication last spring of Herbert Hilscher's "Alaska Now" has been ordered by the publishers.

From the start, Alaska has shown great interest in this book by a member of the Alaska Development Board, and bookshops of the Territory have rolled up impressive sales records. Dave Adler's Bookshop in Fairbanks had what may well be the first author's autographing party to be held in

Fred Allen Starts Campaign Against "Give Aways"

NEW YORK, (AP) — Fred Allen has started a one-man radio campaign against the "give-away" programs that have won millions of listeners.

The sour radio comedian has agreed "in self defense" to bond his listeners up to $5,000 against the loss of any prize they might win by listening to some other program.

Allen says "give-away" programs "are ruining incentive for individual talent in radio."

Almost at the same time that Allen was starting his campaign Sunday night, Kenneth Crosbie, a Bluffton, Ind., beer salesman, was winning $30,000 in prizes from another show—NBS's "Stop the Music." Crosbie was sitting at home listening to the program when his telephone rang. He correctly identified a "mystery tune" as "Turkeys in the Treetop" and was told he had hit the jackpot.

To start the public laughing, Allen announced the award of mythical prizes on his NBC program which included.

A genuine television set and a saloon and bartender to go with it; 4,000 yards of dental floss, practically new; and the gangplank of the liner Queen Mary.

Allen announced that the national Surety Corporation will guarantee his promise to reimburse his listeners.

Alaska upon publication of "Alaska Now" and this was so successful it has been followed by a repeat performance.

About this book, Secretary of Interior Julius Krug has said: "To those who are thinking about Alaska as a home, or as a vacation land and I hope they are legion, 'Alaska Now' supplies most of the answers. It is well worth reading." This is only one of many enthusiastic comments received by the publishers about this book.
